Housing Information:

- Since some will likely opt to drive RVs, use tents, or select different hotels, housing arrangements are left up to attendees to arrange.
- We plan to block off rooms at recommended hotels in the cities where we will be each day, and those hotels offer complimentary breakfasts. [Note: This trip being at peak time during the year, area hotel prices may be higher than normal. Also, since we were limited on how many rooms could be set aside, it is recommended that you reserve your room ASAP in case the hotels fill in the coming weeks. The blocked-off rooms will likely be released to the public 2-3 weeks before the event.] When we have blocked off the rooms, we will update this information sheet. We anticipate the following information being relevant at that time:
 - To make a reservation at the Winslow in Winslow, AZ (November 7, 8, check out 9th): click here — www.WinslowHotels.com [Discount Code: CRP] or call (928) 882-9009 [when the rooms are blocked off, you'll tell them you are with the November 8-10 Flood Experience/CRP]
 - Recommended Hotel in Flagstaff, AZ (November 9, 10, 11, 12, check out 13th): Courtyard Marriott Flagstaff [sleeps 4 or 6] — To reserve a room: click here or call (928) 221-5006 [when the rooms are blocked off, you'll tell them you are with the June 16-20 Flood Experience]

Other Pricing Information:

 With a National Park Pass ($80/family), the whole family can go to these five, plus many other U.S. national parks, for free for an entire year. Otherwise:

- Walnut Canyon National Monument: $25/car
- Wupatki National Monument: $25/car
- Grand Canyon: $35/car
- Petrified Forest/Painted Desert: $25/car
- Sunset Crater Volcano: $25/car

 Check the national parks website to see if they are offering free entrance for vehicles with children in 2027.

Other Considerations:

- Hike alternatives: In some cases, the group will go on relatively strenuous hikes. In those cases where the group-led hikes might be too strenuous for an attendee, an alternative suggestion is made below, keeping in mind that those recommended site explorations will not be led by Dr. Miller:
 - Grand Canyon Caverns alternative: For those unable to hike into the cave, visiting the Museum of Northern Arizona is a good alternative. [A] (In the geology section of the museum, see if you can translate the displayed information/evolutionary interpretation to the biblical interpretation.) There is a charge to visit the museum.

- Grand Canyon hike alternative: For those who do not wish to hike down to Ooh Aah Point, there are several scenic views along the south rim within walking/driving distance, both west and east of the visitor center [A] (West: Hopi Point, Pima Point, Hermit's Rest; East: Yaki point, Pipe Creek Vista, Shoshone point, Duck on A Rock viewpoint, Moran point, Navajo point/Desert View Watchtower). Note that we will meet at Grandview Point to the east for our final session.
- Walnut Canyon hike alternative: For those who do not wish to hike the Island Trail, there is a shorter, easier trail along the rim without the stairs; Wupatki National Monument would also be a recommended site alternative with much easier terrain to traverse

- Safety considerations:

- Average temperature in Flagstaff/Grand Canyon, late November : 25° (low)/50° (high); Winslow: 29° (low)/57° (high)
- While many of the locations we will be visiting have paved pathways and rails, some of the locations are more "rustic." Attendees are asked to stay on the marked pathways, not straying close to drop-offs/cliffs or wandering off the pathways into forests. The rules and warnings marked at each of the locations we will be visiting should be heeded at all times. Due to the remote location of Lava River Cave (with a limited cell phone signal), it is recommended that attendees carry with them a basic first aid pack if they wish to hike the cave.
- Elevation/oxygen: Note that the elevation in Flagstaff/Grand Canyon rim is roughly 7,000 ft. above sea level; Petrified Forest is roughly 6,000 ft. above sea level [Denver, CO, the "mile high city," is roughly 5,300 ft. above sea level]. Higher elevations translate to less oxygen in the air (O₂ at sea level: 20.9%, O₂ at 7,000 feet: 16%), which translates to having more trouble "catching your breath." If you plan to go on the more strenuous hikes and aren't in shape, it is recommended that you do some conditioning prior to coming by taking 30-minute brisk walks 4-5 times each week, preferably with inclines en route.

- Preservation considerations: Attendees are required to leave the locations we will be attending in as good or better a state than it was when they arrived. Be sure not to leave any trash behind, and be sure not to take with you any unauthorized artifacts from the National Parks.

- Lecture considerations:

- There will be places to sit at each location at which Dr. Jeff will be presenting lectures. However, unless you don't mind standing or sitting on the ground, packing a portable chair is recommended in case insufficient seating is available. [This trip is taking place during peak travel times at many of these locations.]
- No hike will be required to reach those locations where an official lecture will be presented.

- Recommended Items to Bring: lots of sunscreen (as well as Aloe Vera, in case of sunburn), a wide brimmed hat, Chapstick, a water bottle or a Camelback (filled at the hotel before joining the group), extra water (beyond what we'll provide each day), hiking shoes, sunglasses, rain/wind breaker, a writing utensil, flashlight/head lamp (for cave), hiking pole/stick (if desired, for cave and Grand Canyon), umbrella, work gloves (if desired; for Lava River Cave), Bible, Flooded book. [More instructions will be forthcoming via email after the registration deadline has passed.]

- Apparel: We ask that shorts/skirts reach the knee (when standing), that no tight, form-fitting clothes be visible, and that no low-cut tops or tops that show the midriff be worn.
- For those choosing to fly to AZ, there are rental car facilities in Phoenix and Flagstaff. [For those who wish to rent a car, you may be able to split the cost by sharing a car with someone else going on the trip. We will plan to set up a “Band page” after the registration deadline for those who are attending so that you can coordinate more easily.]
